Mr. Glen E. Pommerening
Assistant Attorney General
for Administration
Department of Justice
Washington, D.C. 20530

Dear Mr. Pommerening:

The Office of Joint Computer Support has been alerted to your need for simulating a budget problem on the Financial Resources System (FRS). [redacted] [redacted] from that office is available to discuss the specific requirements of your model. This would include the specific type of projects to be entered and the types of queries and reports to be extracted.

We hope that this effort will prove useful to the design of your automated budget system.

Sincerely,

/s/ John F. Blake

Mr. John F. Blake
Deputy Director for Administration
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington, D.C. 20505

Dear Mr. Blake:

The Department of Justice is presently engaged in preliminary studies in an effort to design an automated budget system.

We have obtained advice and guidance from members of your staff in our endeavor for which we are extremely grateful. We feel we could gain further understanding of the potential application of the CIA system if we could simulate a small departmental budget problem on the Central Intelligence Agency's ADP equipment, using the Financial Resources System (FRS) software and hardware. In an effort to conserve machine processing time, the amount of test data has been kept to a minimum.

We thank you for CIA's cooperation of the past and request your assistance in testing this simulated budget problem.

Sincerely,
